He showed them his hands and his side...
 Jesus said to them again, "Peace be with you.
 As the Father has sent me, so I send you."

(from the Holy Gospel according to John 20:19-31)

This Monday, April 24, is the feast of the Patron Saint of our Parish, St. Fidelis of Sigmaringen, OFM Cap (1577-1622). As we celebrate Fidelisfest today in his honor, it is only proper that we learn about his life and reflect on the message it offers for our age. Saints are not simply to be admired; they are to be imitated.

St. Fidelis was a Capuchin friar known for his fearless preaching of the Catholic faith in a time of much theological confusion known as the Counter-Reformation. He was murdered by his theological opponents at Seewis im Prättigau, now part of Switzerland, in 1622 and was canonized in 1746 by Pope Benedict XIV. He is buried in the Capuchin church at Weltkirchen, Feldkirch, Austria.

Mark Roy was born in 1577 at Sigmaringen in southern Germany to John and Genevieve Roy. Although baptized Mark he later took the name Fidelis when he entered the Capuchin Order. He was an exceptional student receiving doctorates in both civil and canon law. As a lawyer he was so known for defending the causes of the poor and the oppressed that he was nicknamed "the poor man's lawyer." But he grew dissatisfied with the corruption he saw among his colleagues. So he left his law career to join the Capuchin Order along with his brother George and was ordained a priest on October 4, 1612.

As a follower of Saint Francis, Fidelis continued his devotion to the poor and oppressed. During a severe epidemic in a city where he was the head of a friary, Fidelis personally cared for many of the sick to the point of endangering his own health. But it was his tireless preaching with legal precision that gained attention. The local bishop asked him to head a group of Capuchins to preach the Catholic faith in an area of Switzerland where religion had unfortunately become entangled with politics. In advocating the Catholic faith there he was accused by anti-Catholic forces of opposing the peasants' national aspirations for independence from Austria.

While he was preaching at Seewis a gun was fired at him, but he escaped unharmed. Many advised Fidelis to leave. But he declined, saying his life was in God's hands. On the road back, he was ambushed and killed by a group of armed men. The details of his death in the painting above the main altar of our church are more symbolic than historic. But there is evidence that the circumstances of his death moved many people, even leading some of his former enemies to convert and be received into the Catholic Church.

The message of the life of any saint must be translated from the culture in which he or she lived into our own age. The specific methods of St. Fidelis in presenting the Catholic faith to those resisting the gospel may not be effective in our culture. But his commitment to his faith is a message for all ages. St. Fidelis used his training and talent as a lawyer to further the faith of the church in the service of the gospel.

We all have talents and training that we should apply not only to our daily secular pursuits but also to the challenge of living our faith, not only for our own personal destiny but as a light for others. St Fidelis' name itself is a message for our age. He was faithful, even to the point of death. St. Fidelis exemplifies an adage of the early Church, "the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the faith."

. . . . and mirth

"My husband and I have a religious difference. He thinks he is God and I don't."

April is Child Abuse Prevention Month

During Child Abuse Prevention month, we are reminded of the call to be instruments of justice, working for the common good of all, which includes the protection of children. In 2002, the bishops of the United States adopted the Charter for the Protection of Children and Young People. They are committed to their "Promise to Protect, Pledge to Heal" to our parishes and Catholic schools. Dioceses have put in place effective policies for safeguarding our children.

Child Abuse Prevention Month should lead to heightened awareness of the need to be vigilant about providing a safe environment for all with the Church and in our communities.
